Marston Science Library

This library serves UF and the community by providing collections in agriculture, biological sciences, chemical & physical sciences, engineering, mathematics & statistics. Open Mon-Thurs 8am-1am, Fri 8am-11pm, Sat 9am-8pm.

Turlington Hall

Opened in 1977, this is home to the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. The plaza area is one of UF’s Free Speech Zones where outside organizations can voice their opinions on campus. Adjacent to Turlington are Century Tower and the University Auditorium.

Plaza of the Americas

As one of UF’s green spaces, this open area will remain undeveloped forever. During the week, this area hosts the Hare Krishna — a group that has served a vegan lunch option for the UF community since 1977. Library West and Criser Hall are both located on the plaza border.

Racquet Club Dining Center

This building houses a food court dining area as well as the Student Recreation and Fitness Center, one of UF’s fitness facilities. It also is adjacent to Farror Hall, the main office of academic advising for the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Ben Hill Griffin Stadium

“The Swamp” now seats almost 92,000 and surrounds Steve Spurrier-Florida Field — the same space where home football games have been played for nearly 100 years. On weekdays, visit the Heavener Football Complex to learn more about UF’s football history. Just across the street, you can visit the Stephen C. O’Connell Center, which houses UF’s basketball, swimming, volleyball and gymnastics programs as well as many other events throughout the year.
